About 'Ridgeland's'

Orana Downs Farming is a mixed farming enterprise spanning 1,328 ha, with operations evenly divided between cropping and beef cattle production. The cattle enterprise runs between 150–200 breeding cows, with progeny weaned and grown out to feeder weights. In addition to home-bred yearlings, 'Orana Downs Farming' operates a trading enterprise, purchasing yearling steers and finishing them to feeder weights. The cropping program primarily targets winter cereals and chickpeas, while the summer rotation includes sorghum and mung beans.

Orana Downs was established in 1968 when John Moffatt purchased the original 498 ha block, 'Thiedikeis'. Since then, the business has steadily expanded and evolved. Robert and Sammi have now returned to the farm full-time. In the short term, the business is focused on further land development to increase productivity and ensure long-term sustainability.

Getting There
